GRANT'S CENTENARY MARKED BY DEDICATION

On April 27th, the 100th anniversary of the birth of General Ulysses S. Grant, the superintendent of the Tonopah National Monument, will be dedicating the monument to the general. The observation of the centennial anniversary of the birth of General Grant is in compliance with the wish of the Grand Army of the Republic. At its last national encampment the G. A. R. adopted the following resolutions:

"That the national government be requested to take appropriate action for the observance of the anniversary, and the congress of the United States take such measures as may be necessary to insure the dedication of the Grant monument at Washington on the 27th of April next. This action on the part of congress is of the highest importance."

That the state legislatures, governors of the several states and municipal officers be urged to take suitable action to bring to the attention of the people the great lesson taught by Grant's steadfast adherence to his country's cause in the face of adversity and that all institutions of learning throughout the land be invited to celebrate the notable event, so that the deep embodiment of General Grant's life, service and character in the thought and conscience of his contemporaries may be fastened with transforming power upon the minds of the youth of the present generation.

That patriotic exercises be held on that day in the schools and churches of the land; that the memorable occasion may not pass without leading ideas and abiding impressions upon the hearts of the young and strengthen the faith of those that believe in the God of our fathers and in the priceless boon of civil and religious liberty."

The dedication ceremonies will be under the auspices of the United States government. Secretary of War John W. Weeks will make a presentation of the group of statues to the United States and Vice President Coolidge will accept it on behalf of the government and the people of the United States. The ceremonies will be opened with invocation by the Rev. Dr. William Edwards Huntington, president emeritus of Boston university, who served as first lieutenant in the 49th Wisconsin volunteer infantry during the Civil War.

The committee which has charge of the ceremonies is headed by Senator Brandages of Connecticut. Other members of the committee are Secretary of War Weeks, Bishop Fallows of Chicago and Colonel Sherrill, superintendent of public buildings and grounds. The statues will be unveiled by two great-granddaughters of the silent commander—Princess Ida Cantacuzene and Edith Grant. The place of honor at the ceremonies will be accorded to the Grand Army of the Republic and the Woman's Relief Corps. Other patriotic organizations have been invited and in addition there will be cadets present from the West Point Military Academy and midshipmen from the Annapolis Naval Academy.

FIRE FIGHTING EQUIPMENT SHOULD BE STANDARDIZED

Installation and standardization of fire fighting equipment in metal mines are urged as humanitarian necessities by William Conibear, member of the standardization division of the American mining congress, and chairman of that body's committee which concerns itself with the problems of fighting and preventing fire in metal mines in connection with "safety first" work generally.

Mr. Conibear, who has gained a wide range of experience on the subject in his position as inspector of the department of safety of the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company, Ishpeming, Mich., declares that the importance of maintaining fire fighting appliances is not being recognized by many operators.

"The amount of fire fighting equipment that should be maintained at the average mine is not so extensive as that the costs of purchase and annual upkeep are prohibitive, even for a small mine," according to Mr. Conibear, "nor should much difficulty be encountered in reaching an agreement upon standardization within reasonable limits."

STATUS COPPER INDUSTRY

The copper mining industry in the twelfth federal reserve district, its present condition and the factors influencing its future are treated in a scientific manner by John Perrin, chairman of the board and federal reserve agent Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco.

The public reads a great deal about the losses in agriculture, but Mr. Perrin's report shows that the farmer is in a better position than the copper industry.

The condition of copper mining is reflected in figures showing that production of the metal in the United States is at the rate of 20 per cent of the pre-war normal production.

Stocks of refined copper and blister and material in process of refining on January 1, 1922, were 750,000 pounds, compared with average pre-war stocks of 350,000,000 pounds. The price of electrolytic copper dropped from 35.74 cents per pound in March, 1917, to 12 cents per pound in August, 1921, and on March 1 was 9.6 per cent under the average pre-war price. The level of prices of all commodities at wholesale, according to index number is 27 per cent above the pre-war level.

SOUTH IS TURNING TOWARD PROTECTION

The change which is in progress in the south as regards the tariff is becoming more and more plainly apparent. The people of that locality are fast being converted to the belief that reasonable protection is a good thing and fair to all interests. A notable contribution to current discussion of the subject is furnished by the Southern Tariff Advocate, published at Fort Worth, Tex. That a journal of this character can be supported in the south is in itself testimony to the fact that a remarkable transformation in sentiment is in progress. Less than a generation ago the south was overwhelmingly for low tariffs or free trade.

Here is what the Southern Tariff Advocate has to say in the course of its contention that free trade is to the disadvantage of the south: "Southern members of congress who are opposed to a tariff on southern products have for their action no precedent among the real leaders of their party, from Thomas Jefferson down to the present day. Instead of meeting the issue and dealing with it as some of their illustrious predecessors have done in similar circumstances, they meet facts with froth and substitute political piffle for sound business arguments. They are incapable of defending their position from a business standpoint, and only those with an utter lack of responsibility for the welfare of the south will continue to vote to send such men to congress." This is pretty plain talk, and is based on truth which should make a deep impression on those who give the matter unbiased consideration.

In fact, there is ample evidence that view similar to those expressed by the Southern Tariff Advocate are held by many residents of the south. Belief in the equity and effectiveness of moderate protective duties for various southern products is spreading rapidly. This being the case, it will be only a question of time before the south adopts the practice of sending protectionists to congress. And to get protection the south will have to renounce the cardinal principle of the democratic party—a tariff for revenue only.

NAVAL OIL RESERVES CANCELLED.

Litigation over titles of oil lands in western states put in naval reserves by executive orders of former presidents have had but one effect—restricted production of oil and stimulating values.

It is reported from Washington that President Harding asked congress on March 21, for an appropriation of $100,000 for the care, custody and operation of the naval petroleum reserves in California, Wyoming and Oklahoma, says Manufacturer.

The government filed a motion in the supreme court, March 21, to dismiss its suit against the North American Oil Consolidated, Pioneer Midway Oil and Union Oil companies of California to restrain them from operating on land claimed as a part of Naval Reserve No. 2 created by a presidential proclamation of December 13, 1912. The settlement provides for the payment by the oil companies of approximately $50,000, representing the expenses and costs in the government in the prosecution of its case to date.

The land which has been in litigation was entered upon in 1907 under the mining laws of the United States and the locators conveyed their interests to the Pioneer Midway Oil company, which late in 1908 or early in 1909 took possession of the four claims. Owing to the lack of water the oil company did not begin actual drilling until May, 1910. Since then, numerous wells have been drilled. The government has contended that the president's withdrawal order of September 27, 1909, cancelled the rights of the companies.

LADY ASTOR TO MAKE VISIT TO AMERICAN HOME

Will Deliver Her First Address
Outside of England Since
Election to Parliament.

(By Associated Press)

BALTIMORE, April 19.—Lady Astor, formerly Miss Nancy Langhorne of Virginia, is about to make her first visit "back home" since she was elected the first woman member of the British parliament. She also will deliver her first address outside of England since she spoke at the international woman suffrage convention at Geneva, Switzerland, in 1920. Soon after her arrival in America she will come here to attend the convention of the national league of women voters and the pan-American conference of women, April 20-29.

Lady Astor will be one of the speakers at a mass meeting of the conference following the state president's dinner, and will tell what women have brought to politics in Europe since they became active in governmental affairs. She will come to Baltimore after addressing an evening mass meeting in New York city under the auspices of the league of women voters, and also will speak in Chicago.
